1. Purpose

The Governance Charter outlines the governance framework of ACPE LTD (ABN 28 107 480 848) which operates under the name “the Australian College of Physical Education” (“ACPE” or “the College”).

The Charter begins with a brief overview of the History of the College and its Mission, Vision and Values, followed by a detailed outline of the College’s interpretation of ‘Good Governance’ and the Framework by which this is achieved.

2. Brief History of ACPE

The Australian College of Physical Education is a specialist independent Higher Education institution. Originally established in 1917 as a physical education training institution for young women, the College today offers, to a diverse group of students, several degrees in Sport Performance, Education, Dance, Sport Business, Applied Fitness, and Health Sciences. Since 1995 it has operated in premises in the heart of Sydney Olympic Park.

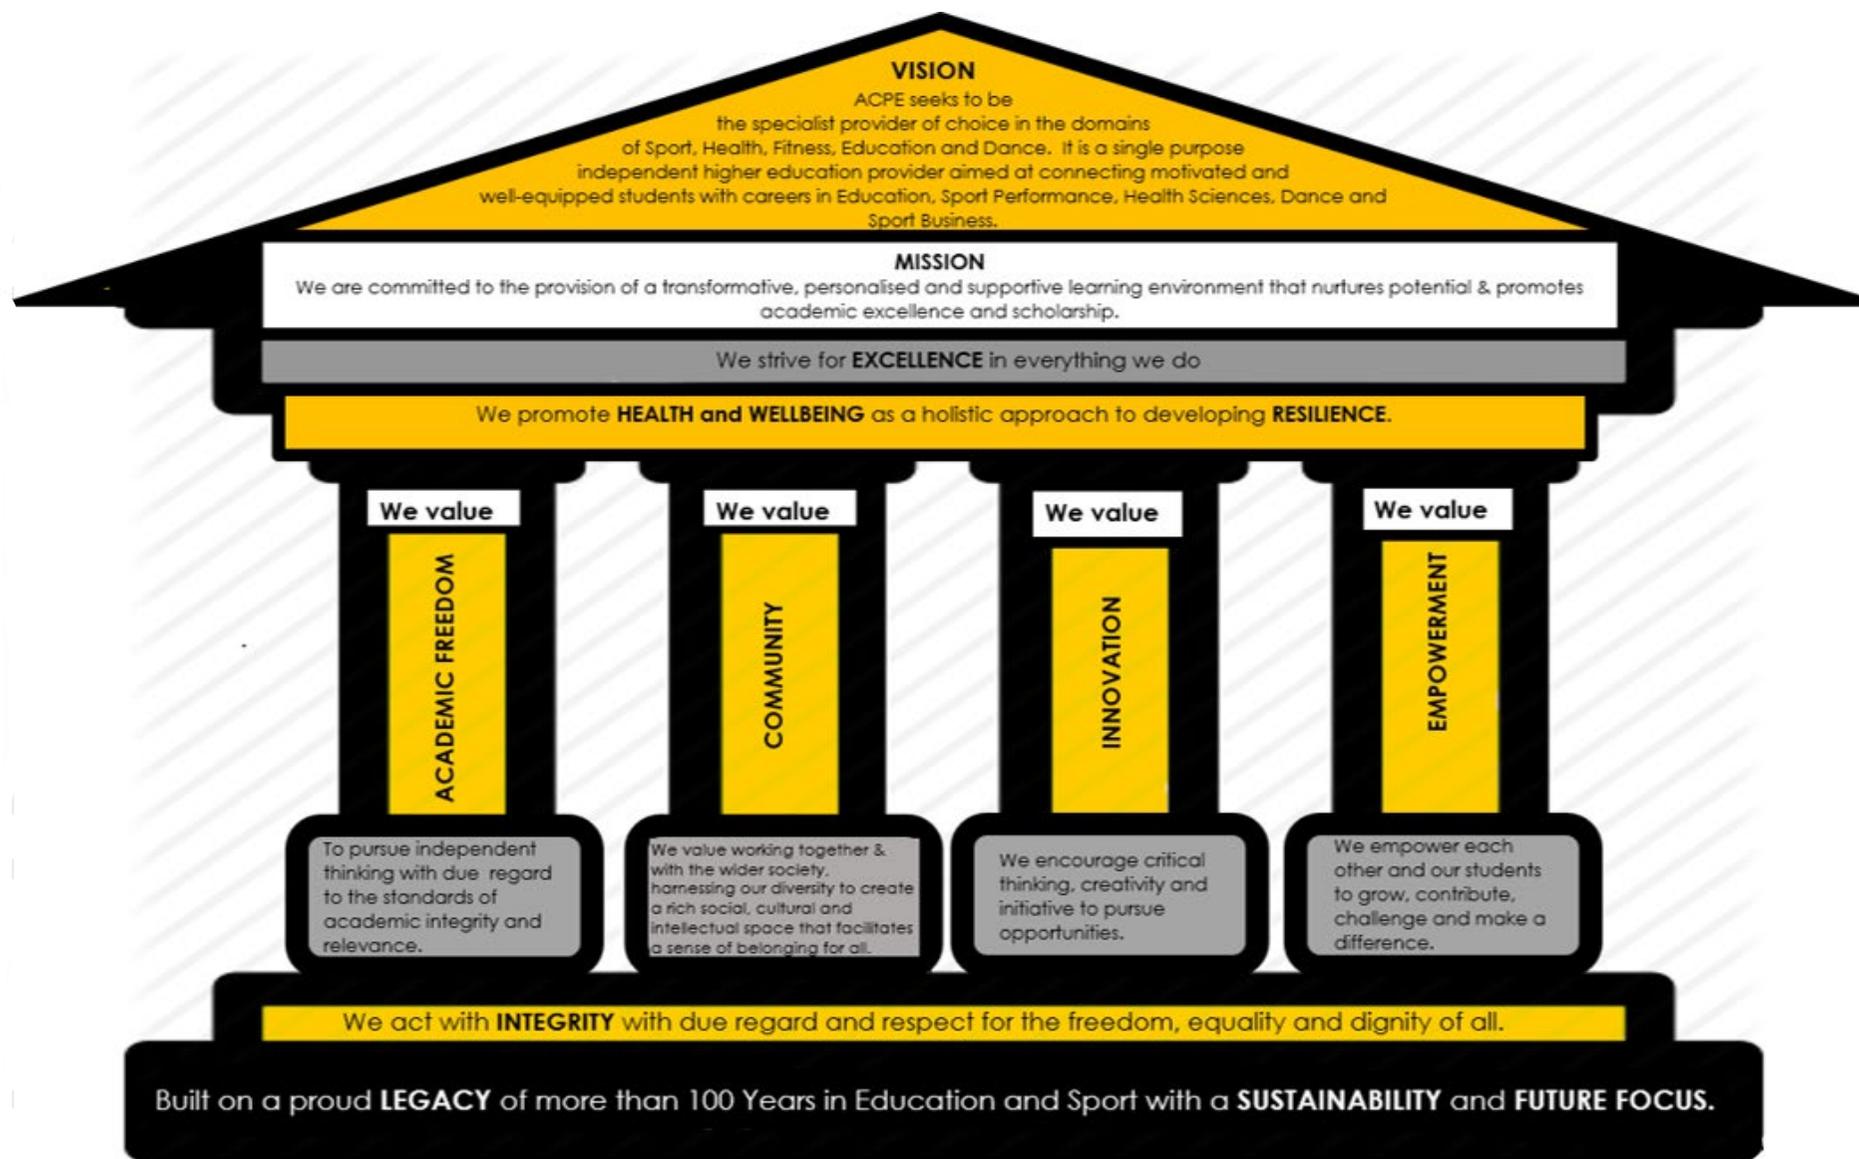

Graduates of the College have had success in establishing careers in many areas including state Departments of Education as well as private schools, the state Departments of Sport and Recreation, the Australian Sports Commission, the Australian Olympic Committee, local government recreation centers, as coaches and trainers for professional sporting teams, as instructors in private gymnasias, and in coaching positions at schools in a number of different sports.

On 1 January 2019, ACPE was acquired by ACPE Holdings Pty. Ltd.

3. Vision, Mission and Values

ACPE's Vision, Mission, Philosophy and Values are laid out in detail in Appendix 1. They are summarised in the diagram below.

This Governance Charter should always be read and applied in the manner that best facilitates achievement of ACPE's Vision and Mission, and that upholds ACPE's Philosophy and Values.

4. Good Governance

4.1 Defining Governance

At ACPE, Governance is defined as the framework within and by which authority is exercised within the College. It encompasses the systems by which the College is controlled, and the mechanisms by which its Boards, Committees, Directors and Officers are held to account.

4.2 Good Governance - Components and Benefits

The Governance Institute¹ outlines four key components of governance:

- i. Transparency: being clear and unambiguous about the organisation's structure, operations and performance, both externally and internally, and maintaining a genuine dialogue with, and providing insight to, legitimate stakeholders and the market generally.
- ii. Accountability: ensuring clarity of decision-making within the organisation, with processes in place to ensure that the right people have the right authority for the organisation to make effective and efficient decisions, with appropriate consequences for failures to follow those processes.
- iii. Stewardship: developing and maintaining an enterprise-wide recognition that the organisation is managed for the benefit of its shareholders/members, taking reasonable account of the interests of other legitimate stakeholders.
- iv. Integrity: developing and maintaining a culture committed to ethical behaviour and compliance with the law.

As indicated in various AICD communications, good governance yields several benefits:

- Better organisational strategies and plans.
- Improved operational effectiveness.
- More prudent regulatory compliance, financial and risk management.
- Improved member and stakeholder engagement and communication flow.
- Increased likelihood that, and degree to which the College actually delivers on its purpose.²

At ACPE, good governance is embodied in the setting and monitoring of the College's organisational culture through its vision and mission and values, which underpin all activities at the College. The vision provides a glimpse into ACPE's desired future, whilst the mission guides the College's priorities and actions, and its values assist in driving the behaviour of staff and students in realising the College's vision. These are referred to under section 3. above and detailed in Appendix 1.

5. ACPE Governance Structure

5.1 ACPE Governance Structure

The Governance structure which serves ACPE is represented in Diagram 1. ACPE Governance Framework below.

5.2 Overview: Governing Boards and Regulatory Requirements

5.2.1 Board of Directors

The Australian College of Physical Education (ACPE) is a limited company with a Board of Directors that includes a majority of independent and non-executive directors along with a representative of the shareholders of the Company. The Board of Directors is chaired by an independent director appointed by the shareholders.

The Board of Directors is the preeminent Governing Body for ACPE. It sets the College's mission and strategic goals in addition to ensuring the College continues to meet its legal, regulatory, financial and social obligations and responsibilities. Its terms of reference and membership comply with Higher Education Standard 6.1.1³ which requires:

“a formally constituted governing body, which includes independent members, that exercises competent governance oversight of and is accountable for all of the higher education provider's operations in or from Australia, including accountability for the award of higher education qualifications, for continuing to meet the requirements of the Higher Education Standards Framework and for the provider's representation of itself.”

These are further elaborated in Section 6.1.

The independence of the Board of Directors provides a mechanism to separate the ownership and governance of the College from the management of the College and to provide independent business, financial and higher education expertise and advice at the highest level of decision-making.

To assist in the evaluation, monitoring, review and mitigation of risk in the College, the Board of Directors convenes the Risk and Audit Committee, the membership of which comprises independent non-executive Directors members of the Board of Directors, one of whom is appointed to serve as chairperson, but who will not be the Chair of the Board of Directors.

In order to provide a mechanism whereby the College is provided with independent academic advice, the Board of Directors (by the powers vested in it by clause 20.10 of the College's Company Constitution) delegates the academic governance of the College to the Academic Board and its sub-committees, but this delegation does not abrogate the Board of Directors of its responsibility to oversee academic governance. The Academic Board, by reporting directly to the Board of Directors, provides expert advice to assist the Board of Directors to discharge this duty. Further detail on the role and terms of reference of the Academic Board and its subcommittees is provided in sections 5.2.2 and 6.3 below.

For the efficient and effective management of the College's day to day business, the Board of Directors delegates responsibility to the CEO who convenes the Senior Management Committee, which consists of the senior management of the College. The Senior Management Committee serves as an advisory body to the CEO in the day-to-day running of the College.

³ HESF 2015

The above described separation of both Academic Governance and Executive Management from Corporate Governance is in accordance with TEQSA's Guidance Notes on Corporate Governance⁴ and Academic Governance.⁵

5.2.2 Academic Board

The ACPE Academic Board is the principal academic decision-making body of the College and advises the Board of Directors on all matters related to the academic governance and operations of the College.

The membership of the Academic Board comprises at least one Director, and academic staff from other higher education providers, industry practitioners, members of professional associations, members of the College's academic staff and representatives of its alumni and students.

To assist in the governance of academic operations and specifically to ensure that the College meets the higher education standards, the Academic Board convenes a Learning and Teaching Committee for monitoring and reporting on quality assurance processes for learning and teaching. The Learning and Teaching Committee also has responsibility for advising on policy and practice related to learning and teaching in the College's courses.

The Academic Board convenes a Course Advisory Committee for each broad discipline to provide advice on new course proposals and the review of existing courses, and to report on applications for course accreditation and renewal of accreditation. External membership provides an additional measure of assuring course quality, relevance and external referencing. Course Advisory Committees are convened by the Academic Board on an Ad Hoc basis as required.

The Academic Board also convenes an Examiner's Committee for the review and ratification of assessment and final results. The Examiner's Committee ensures the quality of the moderation and reviews the academic standing of students.

The detailed terms of reference, membership and meeting protocols for the Board of Directors, the Academic Board and their respective committees and subcommittees are detailed in Section 6.3 to follow.

5.2.3 Regulatory Requirements

In addition to the requirements of ASIC and the Corporations Act, ACPE, as a Higher Education Provider (HEP), is subject to regulation by TEQSA and is required to comply with the HESF 2015, which came into force on 1 January 2017; the Education Services for Overseas Students (ESOS) Act; the National Code of Practice for Providers of Education and Training to Overseas Students 2018 (National Code); and with listing of courses on the Commonwealth Register of Institutions and Courses for Overseas Students (CRICOS). ESOS/CRICOS has relatively few mandatory requirements in relation to governance but does require adherence to numerous standards that relate to student support, infrastructure, facilities, and learning and teaching processes.

More specifically, the Board of Directors and the Academic Board are bound by the requirements of HESF 2015 Domain 6 on Corporate and Academic Governance. Standards 6.1 and 6.2 relate particularly to Corporate Governance and Accountability, while Standard 6.3 relates to academic governance TEQSA's Guidance Notes provide greater clarity on the interpretation and application of selected Higher Education Standards: They embrace Corporate and Academic Governance, including a comprehensive range of matters pertaining to risk management and quality assurance. A current list of relevant Guidance Notes is included as Schedule C.

The minutes are distributed to Board members thereafter and presented for confirmation with papers for the following meeting.

As outlined in the TEQSA Guidance Note on Corporate Governance (2019), minutes record not only the decisions taken, but also the basis on which the decision was made (key documents considered and key points that were taken into consideration in the making of any decision⁶. At a meeting of Directors, a quorum is two independent Directors unless only one Independent Director is present, in which case the quorum is that Independent Director and the Executive Director.

In the event that a motion at a Board of Directors meeting is tied, the Chair has a second vote. However, the Chair may choose not to exercise that right.

6.1.9 Decision-Making between meetings

Where urgent action is required between scheduled meetings of the Board of Directors, a decision may be made via circular resolution. The final internal stage of the resolution process is the hearing of an appeal to the Appeals Committee. The Appeals Committee will review any decision made by the College concerning an academic or non-academic matter, with which a student may not be satisfied. As outlined in the Grievances, Complaints and Appeals Policy and Procedure, a student may exercise their legal rights for an external review following the exhaustion of this final internal process.
