

Bachelor of Health and Movement

1. About Health and Movement

Whether you want to help a specific group of individuals or an entire community improve their well-being, the Bachelor of Health & Movement from ACPE will be your ticket to success. From working as a recreation officer to providing support as a health promotion professional, graduates can turn their love of health and movement into a dynamic career.

The study of health and movement is a personally rewarding and increasingly important field in today's world. Health and Movement studies take an approach combining learning in the areas of health, movement and science.

This degree offers two areas of specialisation in either sport or health promotion.

The Bachelor of Health and Movement (Sport Stream) is also a pathway for the Bachelor of Education (Physical & Health Education).

4. Admission Criteria

a. Applicants with Higher Education study

Applicants with any previous completed higher education study will be required to provide evidence of this study in the form of an academic transcript and testamur.

Applicants with any previous incomplete higher education study will be required to provide evidence of this study in the form of an academic transcript.

If the higher education study was completed in a country other than Australia, the applicant must provide evidence that the qualification has been assessed as equivalent to an Australian higher education qualification.

All applicants must attend a final admissions interview upon submission of their enrolment paperwork. Admissions interviews may be conducted face to face, by other verbal medium (e.g. teleconference or Skype) or a combination of these mediums.

All applicants for entry to any course must meet minimum computer literacy standards as determined by the College and have unrestricted access to the internet and a personal email account.

Domestic applicants must be 18 years of age or turn 18 within their first semester of study. International applicants must be 18 years of age or older.

All applicants must meet the minimum English language requirements for their chosen course of study.

For those courses that involve work integrated learning where students may deal with children (i.e. under 18 years of age) such as education courses, the applicant must be aware that a valid Working with Children Check must be supplied to the College prior to the student undertaking the relevant coursework. If the applicant knows of any reason why they will not pass a Working with Children Check, they should not apply for entry to these courses.

b. Applicants with vocational education and training (VET) study Applicants must have completed a national qualification of Certificate IV or above or a Tertiary Preparation Certificate.

Applicants with any previous completed VET study will be required to provide evidence of this study in the form of an academic record and testamur.

Applicants with any previous incomplete VET study will be required to provide evidence of this study in the form of an academic record or a statement of attainment.

If the VET study was completed in a country other than Australia, the applicant must provide evidence that the qualification has been assessed as equivalent to an Australian qualification.

All applicants must meet the minimum English language requirements for their chosen course of study.

All applicants must attend a final admissions interview upon submission of their enrolment paper work. Admissions interviews may be conducted face to face, by other verbal medium (e.g. teleconference or Skype) or a combination of these mediums.

6. Advanced standing/Recognition of prior learning (RPL)

Recognition of prior learning acknowledges the skills and knowledge that students will bring to their studies at ACPE through previous education or employment experience.

Recognition of prior learning means credit towards a course in consideration of prior learning in another award course at the College or at another institution or in other non-educational contexts in Australia or overseas. The advanced standing is expressed as credit points granted towards an award course.
